AGED MAN HAD A WONDERFUL LIFE

James H. Foxworthy, 92 Years Old,
Died Saturday Night of Bronchial Pneumonia.

ILL ONLY A VERY SHORT TIME

Read All Time up to Last Few Days of His Life Without Glasses.

Following a short illness of only about twelve days, James H. Foxworthy died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Thomas M. Green, in East Fifth street, Saturday evening at 7:50 o'clock. Death was due to bronchial pneumonia which he contracted in an unknown manner. He was sick only a very short time and was able to sit up until the last day of his life.

Mr. Foxworthy was probably the oldest man in the county, having passed the ninety-second milestone in his life last April fourth. He was a very remarkable old man, in that he read up until a few days of his death without glasses. He never wore a pair of glasses in his life and spent most of the time reading during the last few years of his life when he grew so old that he was unable to do anything. He never read by artificial light.

The deceased was a life-long Republican. He voted first when he was only eighteen years old in Kentucky. He was a member of the State militia and at that time there was a law to the effect that any militiaman, no matter of what age, had the right to vote. He voted for William Henry Harrison in the campaign of 1840, when Mr. Harrison was elected to the presidency. He did not vote at the last city election on account of the bad weather and cast his last vote at the county option election held here in February.

Mr. Foxworthy has had a very remarkable career. He was hardy and well preserved and never knew what sickness was with the exception of three accidents which he had in his life. He had his back broken once when a young man. He was climbing over a pile of pumpkins when they rolled and threw him to the ground. At other times in his life he had one leg and one arm broken.

The deceased was a twin brother of Alexander Foxworthy. He, too, lived to a ripe old age and did not pass away until past 88 years of age. Mr. Foxworthy was presented with a gold headed cane at the big home coming celebration at the fair grounds in the summer of 1907 for being the oldest man in the county.

The deceased was born in Fleming county, Kentucky, April 4, 1817. He was the son of Samuel Foxworthy and Mary Calvert. He made his home in Kentucky during his younger days and did not come to this State for permanent residence until 1848. The next spring after he moved here he was married.

He taught school in this county two winters before moving here permanently. He taught school for a number of years, and then began farming. He lived about one mile from the Rush-Henry county line, near the Sailors and Soldiers' Orphan Home and still owned the farm at the time of his death. He left the South and came to this county on account of slavery.

The deceased was a devout and earnest Christian. He was a member of the M. E. church at Knightstown for sixty-one years, but never transferred his membership to the local congregation. He realized that his last sickness would mean his death. He did not feel much pain and passed calmly out of this life into the next. He expressed the wish to his daughter just thirty minutes before that he wished he could pass away.

Mrs. Thomas Green is the only surviving child, one other daughter having died several years ago. The deceased was a widower, his wife having died several years ago.

A short funeral service will be held at the residence of the daughter tomorrow morning at ten o'clock, conducted by the Rev. W. H. Clark. Following that the funeral cortege will move to Knightstown, where services will be held in the M. E. church there. It will be conducted by the Rev. Thornburg, who is the pastor of the church. Burial will be in Barrett cemetery.

MOSCOW TEAMS DEFEAT MILROY

Two Basketball Aggregations From Orange Wallop the Anderson
Township Lads at Home.

MANILLA PLAYERS LOOKING

The two basketball teams representing the Moscow high school covered themselves with glory Friday night when they defeated the two teams from the Milroy high school, says the Shelbyville Democrat. The contest between the two first teams was won by Moscow by the score of twenty-two to seventeen, while the score in the game between the second teams was twenty-four to thirteen in favor of Moscow. A large crowd witnessed the contest, which were played in the gymnasium of the high school building at Milroy. Earl Halterman of baseball fame, officiated as referee and not a "kick" was registered against his decisions.

The members of the Moscow first team are Halterman, Barlow, Halterman, Barlow, Sheppel and Alter. The manager of the Manilla team has at most completed arrangements for a game with Hope, the contest to be played at Manilla next Friday afternoon.

LOOKING AFTER NEEDY CHILDREN

Charity Workers Are Seeing That Medical Treatment is Given When it Should Be.

PLAN FOR BIG CHARITY BALL

Great plans are being made for the charity ball to be given at the Kramer colosseum on the night before Thanksgiving. Mrs. T. W. Betker and Mrs. A. L. Stewart who are boosting the affair hope to make this one much more successful than the one last year from a money standpoint. It could hardly be surpassed from the standpoint of enjoyment. They think the response will be much more liberal this year than last.

These two women are doing much good among the poor. Just now they are looking after the school children and attending to those who need glasses, and taking those whose eyes are in need of attention to doctors. They are also looking after the sick who are not receiving all the comforts they need because of the lack of money. They are hiring nurses and doing a thousand and one things to make life more pleasant and more profitable for others. They hope to realize enough money from the charity ball to carry on this work on a more extensive plan for another year.

FIRST INNING IN OPEN COURT

Motion Made to Prosecute as Poor
Person in the Brooks-Miller Affair.

FIVE SUITS ARE DISMISSED

Mays School Case Will Come up This Week—Petit Jury For Wednesday.

The Dale Brooks-Herschel Miller affair got its first notice in the circuit court today, but the appearance was only temporary and the scene was short. The plaintiff filed a motion to prosecute as a poor person and after this motion was argued the court took the matter under advisement.

The opening day of the November term was dismissal day and five suits were taken out or put out of the court's hands. The case of the W. L. Green Commission company against Thomas H. New, a damage suit brought here from Hancock county, was dismissed by agreement. Another Hancock county case, that of Charles H. Troy against the Hazelwood Gas company for damages, was dismissed by agreement.

The suit of Oscar Gordon against William Hall for damages was dismissed by the court for want of prosecution. The case of A. L. Stewart against the C. H. & D. railroad was compromised out of court. Mr. Stewart had sued for $200 damages. The partition suit of Joseph Samuel Somerville against Ira Somerville et al., was dismissed for want of prosecution.

The Mays school case will probably come up this week. The petit jury has been called for Wednesday.

HIGH SCHOOL IS VICTORIOUS

Defeated the Greenfield Eleven Saturday Afternoon by the Score of 10 to 0.

THE GAME WAS WELL PLAYED

Local Athletes Made Second Touchdown When One-half Minute of Play Was Left.

In what was probably the fastest game of the season the Rushville high school football team defeated the high school eleven from Greenfield Saturday afternoon by the score of ten to nothing. The local athletes made a touchdown shortly before the close of the first half and failed to kick goal. They shoved Buford Winship, fullback, over the line for the second touchdown when they just had one-half minute to play in the last half.

The game was called at 2:30 o'clock. Rushville kicked off to the visitors, they returning the ball only a few yards before being downed by a black and red warrior. The ball see-sawed up and down the field and it looked for a time that Greenfield had a shade the advantage of the local eleven. The two teams were about evenly matched in weight, but Greenfield ploughed through the line of the local team with ease.

Rushville, however, braced and held their opponents for downs. The ball was pushed from one end of the field to the other, with Greenfield having the best end of the barke of luck. They were successful with several forward passes and made good gains on several plays that had the earmarks of being flukes. Several times the Rushville goal line was in danger, but the local boys managed to hold for downs or get the ball on a fumble and then punted out of danger.

Gunning, the local quarterback, clearly surpassed the opposing man on his punts. They were high so that the ends could get down and in this way Rushville gained on the visitors. They finally worked the ball down near the visitors' goal line, near the end of the half and Norris went over the line for a touchdown after a spectacular run of fifteen yards around left end. Gunning failed to kick goal.

Greenfield kicked off to Rushville at the beginning of the second half. The game was reversed in this half as the lads from Hancock county were put on the defensive most of the time. The play was mostly in their territory. The red and black team came back with a vengeance in the last and played as if they meant to win. But they met a stubborn resistance and did not make the second and last touchdown until just one-half minute of the play was left. They rushed the ball down to the two yard line on a series of line bucks and pushed the fullback over the second marker of the game. Gunning failed to catch the kick-out.

The game was well played by both teams and was very interesting aside from a few wrangling matches. There were really no bright and shining stars on either side. Most of the attempted forward passes were successful, Greenfield getting away with the greater number of them. The last game of the season will be played here with the Kirkin high school eleven Thanksgiving day.

GAME WARDENS VISIT COUNTY

Find Everything Satisfactory and no
Arrests Are Made For Law Violations.

LIFE IS SOMETIMES EXCITING

Say They Have More Trouble in the Southern Part of the State
Than in This Section.

T. N. Ehlers and W. D. Peek, two game wardens were in this county Saturday looking after the hunters. The game wardens are spending much time trying to catch law violators now, but they found everything satisfactory in this county Saturday. They came here from Henry county and said they expected to spend the greater part of this week in Henry county.

They say that they find less violation of the law in this part of the State than in any other. They have considerable trouble in the southern part of the State and there their experiences are often very exciting. They told of an experience they had a short time ago in which they were forced to slip up on two men at day-break in order to capture them. They were fined for having a seine in their possession. The wardens have to watch the streams closely in the southern part of the State they say.

The two men who were here Saturday emphasized the fact that they work on a salary and that they get paid whether they make arrests or not. There has been considerable complaint in some places because game wardens apparently try to make men violate the law in order to arrest them. The two here said their salary was not contingent on the arrests they made, but they are hoping to suppress all violations of the game laws.

WOMEN HEAR TALK ON GREEK DRAMA

Mrs. May Donnan Presents Interesting Side of Old Plays to Literary Class.

AMERICAN BOOK IS REVIEWED

Mrs. May W. Donnan gave a most interesting talk to her study class Saturday afternoon, on the Greek dramas, using the trilogy of Aeschylus, which includes "Agamemnon," "Orestes," and "The Eumenides." Mrs. Donnan's broad knowledge of Greek history, her explanatory manner of extracting the very best and most interesting portions of the play, and her able method of conveying the full force of them, excites interest in the old Greek stories and is valuable as a comparative study of the modern drama.

Mrs. Donnan reviewed President Nicholas Muray Butler's book, "The American as He Is." This book is made up of the three lectures which President Butler delivered at the University of Copenhagen, and is a study of the American as a political, individual, and intellectual type.

ABANDON HOPE FOR ENTOMBED

No Sign of Life In Cherry Mine.

400 MINERS CAUGHT

Of This Number It Is Thought
All Have Perished.

STORY OF GREAT DISASTER

Flames Follow Explosion In Illi- nois Mine, Cutting Off Escape.

Cherry, Ill., Nov. 15.—In the mine of the St. Paul Coal company here, where they were trapped by fire Saturday afternoon, three hundred and eighty-four men are probably dead. All efforts at rescue have failed. Not a sign of life has come from the imprisoned men.

The fire which gutted the two shafts has been smothered, but it is feared that the men's lives have been snuffed out by that effort to save them from being roasted alive.

Mine experts in oxygen helmets have made repeated trips down the air shaft. They have reported the second vein level, but not one of the miners has been reached.

Two government experts, R. Y. Williams and J. M. Webb of the Urbana mine rescue staff, are conducting the work. Williams and Henry Smith, a volunteer, made most of the dangerous descents. State Mine Inspector Taylor made one descent. The helmeted men with electric lanterns and oxygen tanks strapped on their backs, fought their way down the air shaft. Dense smoke poured from the shaft when they entered. Projecting timbers had to be passed and fear of a cave-in was held by the movement of the feet.

Richard Newcom, president of the state mining school, is in charge of the situation. Ten state mine inspectors, two county mine inspectors and officials of the mine and the C. M. & St. P. Railway company are in continuous conference. Until the mine divers enter the second vein of the tunnel and close the trap-doors and the mine can be cleared of smoke, the deadly fire-damp and black-damp, the experts say they can only wait.

Hope for some of the entombed men has not been abandoned. The more experienced, it is hoped, have made for the face, the ends of the galleries and winding rooms, where the walls may shut out the smoke and give them one fighting chance in a thousand.

Twelve bodies have been taken out. Six of them were heroes not employed in the mine, who gave their lives in a futile effort to save imprisoned workers.

The fire causing the explosion, which may prove one of the greatest tragedies in the list of mine horrors, had an origin almost trivial. A pile of hay allowed to smolder too long finally ignited the timbers of the mine, and before the workers realized their danger the mine was filled with smoke, gas and flame and all exit was impossible.

The mine is the only one in Cherry, and more than half the male population are employed in it. Three veins extend from the main shaft, the lowest being more than 300 feet below the surface. It is known that men were at work on all three veins.

No accident of a similar nature has been recorded in the history of mine disasters in Illinois. The greatest loss of life in any mine accident in this state occurred at Braidwood in 1879, when eighty men lost their lives. The accident was caused by a sudden breaking down and flooding of the mine.

Blame for the disaster may be placed on the company and its executive because of inactivity in the hour that the air-shaft cage was left at the bottom of the bottom level. Evidence along that line was given before the coroner's jury Sunday at the inquest over the body of John Flood, one of the rescuers. John Rainsbeck, engineer of the air shaft, admitted that he raised his cage but once in the rescue work. Strict obedience to the rules requiring signals for every motion of the cage was offered as his excuse.

His evidence and that of John Cowley, engineer of the main shaft, caused the jury to decide upon a thorough probe of the matter of signals. So serious did the jury consider the inactivity of the two engineers in the crisis that it was decided to hear only testimony of the routine facts concerning the twelve dead officially brought to their notice.

Today the hearing took up the responsibility of Rainsbeck and Cowley for the extent of the disaster.

An unknown man leaped to his death from Brooklyn bridge Sunday.

TROUBLE BREWING

The Mining Wage Issue Again Up In Pennsylvania.

Pittsburg, Nov. 15.—The operators are already making preparations to force an issue upon the miners that may result in another great national conflict in which the miners assert 250,000 miners will join, although the working agreement between the bituminous coal operators and United Mine Workers of America does not expire until next April.

The association of bituminous coal operators in central Pennsylvania has held several quiet meetings and discussed matters that are creating considerable uneasiness in the miners' camp. It has leaked out that many independent operators have attended these sessions and every effort is being made to strengthen the association to inaugurate a combined movement to reduce wages next spring.

The operators claim that there is an insufficient margin of profit for them at the present market price of coal for which they are compelled to pay 66 cents a ton for mining, and they demand that the miners accept a "reasonable" reduction without having agreed among themselves upon the proposed cut.

On their part the miners are resolutely setting their faces against any reduction in wages. They claim that, owing to the slackness of work and present low wages they are barely able to make a living for themselves and families.

AN OAKLAND WOMAN MARRIED A WOMAN

Plea for Divorce Reveals Strange Secret.

San Francisco, Nov. 15.—Dr. Alice Bush of Oakland, well-known physician, and daughter of Tax Collector Bush of San Francisco, has just been granted a divorce on the unusual plea of fraud in marriage contract. In plain words, Dr. Bush found that she had married a woman, and she prayed to be legally freed by applying for annulment of the marriage contract. Her husband was R. K. Morgan, a fine-looking young medical student twenty-three years old, who came here from New York. "He" was not over half Dr. Bush's age, but they were constantly together. They were married in 1905, but the complaint does not state when the wife discovered her husband's secret. Dr. Bush never changed her name, and most of her friends were unaware of the marriage.

New York, Nov. 15.—That Augusta E. Stetson of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in this city, is to be put on her trial by the directors of the mother church in Boston, is a report that has added to the stir in Christian Science circles here.

According to the best information obtainable, Mrs. Stetson, with a small party of supporters, left here for Boston on the 5 o'clock train. Edward Barlow, chairman of the Christian Science publications, said he was unaware of her departure and he knew nothing of her errand. An adverse verdict at the trial, if there is to be one, could mean, it is said, only one thing—Mrs. Stetson's excommunication. Ever since the second admonitory notice sent to Mrs. Stetson by the Boston authorities it has been a subject of conjecture here how long it would be before the third step, excommunication, would follow.

In addition he has pleaded with the farmers to kill any person who attempts to injure their property, offering as a reward a pardon for the murder. The farmers who have so far refused to obey the command of the night riders and pool their tobacco, are taking advantage of the offer of the governor, and have made ample preparation to resist any attack. Soldiers guarding the home of Benjamin Longnecker in Mason county the past few days have returned to Lexington and report the Longnecker home a regular arsenal, with ten Jorgeson rifles and a half dozen Swiss repeating rifles and an equal number of shotguns and pistols and three men on guard day and night.

Similar precautions have been taken by others in various sections of the state. The Longnecker home was fired on a week or more ago and riddled with bullets.

How Did This Boy Come to Get Into the Chimney?

New York, Nov. 15.—The dead body of a five-year-old Italian boy who dropped out of sight about ten days ago was found in a five-foot chimney at 322 East Sixty-third street, Sunday. Nobody had more than a shrug by way of explanation as to how the five-year-old could get himself into the mouth of a chimney some two feet higher than he was. The police have sent men to find out if the boy got into the chimney all by himself. The life of the little boy was insured for $400, someone said.

Streets of Paris Resounded With Rejoicing.

Paris, Nov. 15.—At an early hour Sunday morning Mme. Marguerite Steinheil was acquitted by a jury of the murder of her husband, Adolph Steinheil, a noted painter, and her step-mother, Mme. Japy.

The verdict was rendered after two and a half hours' deliberation, during which the jury thrice summoned the president of the court for explanations, thus proving that the original majority was for conviction.

Upon the announcement of the verdict the crowds surged forward in a solid wall, making the rafters ring with cheers. Outside the gloomy court the first of thousands who had been waiting for hours took up the cry.

Special editions of the papers spread the news like wildfire through the boulevards, where thousands more were waiting in front of the cafes, and the same scenes of rejoicing were witnessed there.

HAPPY RESULTS

Have Made Many Rushville Residents Enthusiastic.

No wonder scores of Rushville citizens grow enthusiastic. It is enough to make anyone happy to find relief after years of suffering. Public statements like the following are but truthful representations of the daily work done in Rushville by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. Frank Vredenburg, 211 Jackson street, Rushville, Ind., says: I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, knowing them to be an excellent remedy for weak kidneys. One of my children was afflicted with a kidney weakness and I was told by a physician that nothing could be done. However, when I read that Doan's Kidney Pills were curing other people of similar troubles, I obtained a box at F. B. Johnson & Co.'s drug store. OUR BIGGEST SEA FIGHTERS Remarkable Armament and Power of the American Dreadnoughts, Delaware and North Dakota, Greatest Battleships In the Navy.

By JAMES A. EDGERTON.

AMERICA now has the biggest battleships in commission. The recent government tests and acceptance of the Delaware and North Dakota place us in the van. England and Japan have launched one or two bigger ships, and they are now being completed, but it will be some months before they are ready. Germany has also projected some giants of greater tonnage, but they will not be in commission till a still later date. Temporarily the United States is the Dreadnoughtiest naval power on the planet. Not only so, but she promises to hold the place. About the time the other nations pass us with their bigger vessels our Utah and Florida will be ready, and they have each a greater displacement by 1,500 tons than the Delaware and North Dakota. If the other ambitious powers try to get ahead of that pair of sea monsters Uncle Sam has still two cards to play, for the Wyoming and Arkansas are being planned, and they will have a displacement of 26,000 tons, or 4,500 more than the Utah and Florida. It may be remarked also that they are considerably larger than the battleships projected by any nation so far as known. When it comes to Dreadnoughts or super-Dreadnoughts or super-super-Dreadnoughts your Uncle Samuel is stepping along at the head of the procession. It costs money, each one of the new naval Jumbos eating up something like eight or ten million dollars for building and a million a year for maintenance, but the peace

Still Larger Vessels of Enormous Displacement and a Greater Number of Guns Have Been Planned—To Be Run by Turbines.

building is doubtless the result of England's policy of maintaining a navy as strong as that of any other two nations. The Dreadnought type certainly comes from England, although America, as in so many other things, is now beating her at her own game. The British ship of that name was completed in 1906 and started a new era in naval construction. Since then she has put on the seas six more of the same type and of even greater tonnage and armament, has launched an eighth larger than any of them and is building four more, making twelve in all. Other nations are following the pace. France already has six battleships of slightly greater displacement than the Dreadnought, but not mounting so many big guns. Germany has four of equal tonnage and almost equal armament and is building six more greater still. Italy is constructing two ships of the Dreadnought class and has provided for two more. Japan has two and is building four additional ones, some of them almost completed. Russia has two ships that are but slightly inferior to the original Dreadnought in displacement and armament and is building four more of greater tonnage and equal armament. America has eight vessels of the Dreadnought class that are either completed or are under way, two of which, the Michigan and South Carolina, are slightly inferior in tonnage and armament to the English Dreadnought and the other six already named all surpassing that vessel. This is the world's complement of battleships of the lar-of the world must be preserved at any price. As a peace producer a Dreadnought is figured to be better than a Hague congress.

A Chapter of Paradoxes.

Taken by and large, the naval game is now about the funniest thing in the world. It is fuller of paradoxes than a frog pond is of tadpoles. For one thing, it consists of building fighting ships that no shell can pierce and of inventing shells that no fighting ship can withstand. It is a race in planning bigger and more improved naval vessels that are outclassed and ready to be consigned to the junk heap by the time they are completed. It creates engines of war whose professed object is to prevent war. It produces the most expensive and elaborate weapons of destruction in the history of the world that ordinarily are used for nothing more destructive than shooting at a mark or conveying their officers to pink teas. It is both a menace and a promise—a menace of a holocaust that will involve all nations and will be the most terrible ever known and, on the other hand, a promise of security that reassures the timid and makes many believe that the thousand years of peace have already begun. It is so packed with potential harm as to be thought harmless, so fraught with the possibilities of death that it is considered a safeguard of life, so terrible that it amuses the world.

This humorous view of the case, however, is at best superficial. The race toward naval supremacy brings out a high type of human ingenuity, energy and progress. It throws into circulation vast sums of money that are chiefly paid to labor. It trains armies of workmen and other armies of marine soldiers and seamen into a high grade of efficiency and order. It makes the nations more diplomatic, cautious and courteous. It suppresses lawlessness on the seas and prevents international squabbles over petty questions. The world's navies are the world's policemen. They are better than standing armies, for they are confined to the water and do not overawe and oppress the people at home. If they are a menace it is only to outside foes.

The present frenzy of battleship gest class and takes no account of the smaller battleships, armored cruisers, some of which are also of gigantic size, and the hundreds of war vessels of lesser types belonging to these and other nations. For a world of peace we certainly are well armed. If all this is necessary to prevent war, what would we do if we actually expected war? It is like a man going about bristling with guns and knives merely to announce the fact that he does not want to fight.

The original British Dreadnought, after which all the others of that class are to some extent modeled, is a vessel of 17,900 tons displacement, length 490 feet, width 82 feet, draft 26 feet 6 inches, maximum speed 22.4 knots, armament ten twelve-inch guns, twenty-seven quick firing twelve pounders and five submerged torpedo tubes.

Our Dreadnoughts Larger.

Compared to this the American Dreadnoughts show up very favorably, all of them excelling it in size with the exception of the Michigan and South Carolina. These two vessels went into commission in 1908. They are 16,000 tons displacement, 18.5 knots speed, 450 feet length, 80 feet 3 inches beam and 24 feet 6 inches draft. Their armament consists of eight ten-inch guns, twenty-two quick firing three inch guns, two quick firing three pounders, eight quick firing one pounders and two torpedo tubes. The Michigan and South Carolina are not always classed as Dreadnoughts, but the arrangement of their guns and other points of construction fix them with this type. Several of our older battleships are larger, however, the Connecticut and Louisiana each having 17,600 tons displacement and the New Hampshire, Kansas, Minnesota and Vermont 17,650 tons. Each of these six vessels has four twelve-inch guns, with a host of smaller pieces. They were designed, however, before the advent of the Dreadnought type.

The Delaware and North Dakota, the two vessels that have just been tested by the government, begin the real Dreadnought era, or, rather, super-Dreadnought era, in the American navy. English experts have pronounced the North Dakota the most up to date battleship afloat. After her launching and before her completion she was severely criticised by American naval experts, but that is the business of experts. President Roosevelt paid enough heed to the strictures to call a naval court to pass on the points of the new battleship, and in several particulars an adverse finding was made. It was then too late to change the North Dakota and Delaware, but modifications were made in the designs of subsequent vessels. Despite minor defects, however, these two are certainly the greatest fighting ships in the American navy, if not in the world. They are of 20,000 tons displacement or 22,000 at full load, and the speed is 21 knots, which was bettered by both ships in actual tests, the North Dakota making 22.25 knots an hour; length, 518 feet 9 inches over all; beam, 85 feet 3 inches; draft, 27 feet; armor, 8 feet wide and 11 inches thick; engines on the North Dakota on the turbine system, a novelty in battleship construction; armament, ten twelve-inch guns, arranged to be fired in one broadside on either side the ship, a superiority over the British Dreadnought; fourteen quick firing five inch guns; four quick firing three pounders; four semi-automatic one pounders; two three-inch field guns; two one-half inch machine guns; two twenty-one-inch submerged torpedo tubes.

Will Scare the Man in the Moon.

To a layman that would seem enough artillery to sink a fleet, tear down a city, wipe out an army or make the man in the moon jump sideways. For example, each of the twelve inch guns throws a ball weighing 750 pounds a distance of twenty miles and is capable of being shot twice per minute. As for the smaller artillery, the five inch guns would have been considered giants a few years ago.

The Delaware and North Dakota are different in appearance from any other battleships in the American fleet. They have high decks in front, enabling them to be fired when the vessel is at rapid speed or in a storm. Each has two skeleton masts made up of a framework of rods and cables such as have already been installed on a few of the larger ships. It is almost impossible to bring these masts down, as they can be shot through and through and still stand firm.

Of the American Dreadnoughts yet to be completed the Florida and Utah are still larger than the Delaware and North Dakota. The displacement of each of these vessels will be 21,500 tons. The keels of both were laid early this year, the Florida at the New York navy yard, the Utah at the works of the New York Shipbuilding company. The length of these two vessels will be about the same as the Delaware and North Dakota, but with three feet greater width and one and a half feet more draft. There will be the same number of twelve inch guns, with two more five inch and several more smaller pieces. There are also improvements in the way of armor and other points criticised by the board of experts on the North Dakota. Both the new vessels will be run by turbines. The Florida and Utah will be completed no later than 1911.

The Two Biggest of All.

It would be supposed that with these two marine monsters the limit in battleship construction had been reached. But still another pair authorized in 1909 and just contracted for will dwarf all the rest. They will have the enormous displacement of 26,000 tons, which is at least 4,000 tons heavier than is known to be contemplated by any navy on earth. Their armament will also be greater, each carrying twelve twelve-inch guns, all arranged on a center line, to be fired at one broadside. Their length is to be 534 feet, which is greater than the height of the Washington monument; beam 93 feet 3 inches, draft 28 feet 6 inches, or more than thirty feet greater length and eight feet greater width than the giant North Dakota and Delaware, now being commissioned. As the keels of these vessels have not yet been laid, it is hardly probable that they will be completed before 1912 or 1913. They are to be named the Arkansas and the Wyoming and are being built by the New York Shipbuilding company and by Cramp & Sons respectively.

With the construction of the Florida, Utah, Arkansas and Wyoming, Uncle Sam will have eight Dreadnoughts, fourteen battleships of more than 16,000 tons displacement and thirty-four battleships in all. This takes no account of the armored cruisers, many of them almost as heavy, or of the numberless types of other fighting vessels. The millions of first cost in the construction of these ships is but a small part of the expense. For example, it is estimated that one broadside from the Utah, including both twelve inch and five inch guns, which can all be fired simultaneously, will cost $18,400, enough money to buy 365,000 loaves of bread, to pay for one year the wages of twenty-six school-teachers or to meet the average yearly rent of sixty-eight families. Verily the race in naval construction started by Great Britain is liable to exact a price that will stagger humanity.

Moving Pictures In the Light.

An inventor of moving picture appliances and machinery has devised a new screen which gets rid of the annoyance of darkness in the room. With his patent screen, a large mirror with a chemically frosted surface, pictures are as plain in the light as in darkness, thus doing away with the danger of panic in the dark.

has played havoc with the tresses of the fair sex, and druggists everywhere comment on the fact that they are selling large quantities of sage or making the old-fashioned "sage tea," such as was used by our grandmothers for promoting the growth of their hair and restoring its natural color. The demand for this well-known herb for this purpose has been so great that one manufacturer has taken advantage of the fact, and has placed on the market an ideal "sage tea," containing sulphur, a valuable remedy for dandruff and scalp rashes and irritations. This preparation, which is called Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur, is sold by all leading druggists for 50 cents and $1 a bottle, or will be sent direct by the Wyeth Chemical Company, 74 Courtlandt St., New York City, upon receipt of price.

THE PRESIDENT WILL SETTLE DIFFERENCES

Either Ballinger Or Pinchot Will Have to Go.

Washington, Nov. 11.—In a manner that will compel him to take action immediately, the subject of the so-called Ballinger-Pinchot controversy has been laid before President Taft.

As things stand now the internal trouble with which he has had to deal must cease or either Richard A. Ballinger, the secretary of the interior, or Gifford Pinchot, the forester of the agricultural department, will go out of the government service; the first voluntarily on account of dissatisfaction or the other through invitation to resign or a more drastic method.

It has become known on high authority that the president will take radical action within the next ten days to bring to an end the difficulties which have involved Mr. Ballinger and Mr. Pinchot, on account of differences on the subject of conservation of national resources. Firmly convinced that the two officials in question are single-minded in their purpose to conserve such of the resources of the country as are within the control of the federal government and that they differ only as to the methods by which the policy of conservation shall be administered, the president will first make an effort to harmonize the trouble. If this fails, the president will resort to heroic measures.

COSTA RICA INVADED

Revolution in Nicaragua May Involve a Neighboring Republic.

Washington, Nov. 11.—The revolution in Nicaragua has extended over into Costa Rica and complications threaten to develop between President Zelaya of Nicaragua and the government of Costa Rica. The state department has been informed that Nicaraguan troops engaged in fighting a revolutionary force had invaded Costa Rica on the south banks of the San Juan river. The government of Costa Rica has asked Nicaragua for an explanation of the incident. The present situation in Central America is regarded by officers of the state department as serious.

SENTENCE DEFERRED

Court Will Act in the St. Jean Murder Case Next Week.

Fall River, Mass., Nov. 11.—Frank L. Hill, the herb doctor charged with killing Amelia St. Jean, was put on the stand. Questioned by the district attorney, he told how the St. Jean girl came to her death, reiterating the statement made by his counsel that she used the instruments herself to perform an operation and that her death resulted from her own act.

Judge Stevens announced that he would defer sentence until some time next week.

No Rest For the President.

Washington, Nov. 11.—President Taft left Washington last evening for another trip. He will visit Hartford and Middletown, Conn., and will make a special stop at Middletown. He is to return to Washington tomorrow. At Middletown he will participate in the inauguration of a new president of Wesleyan University.

Woman's True Friend

Experimenting with new and untried medicines is foolish, and often dangerous. It would take a medicine more than forty years, to prove itself so universally good as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. During all that time it has been woman's favorite medicine—a restorative tonic, uplifting and invigorating the nervous and discouraged and giving them the final touch of perfect health.

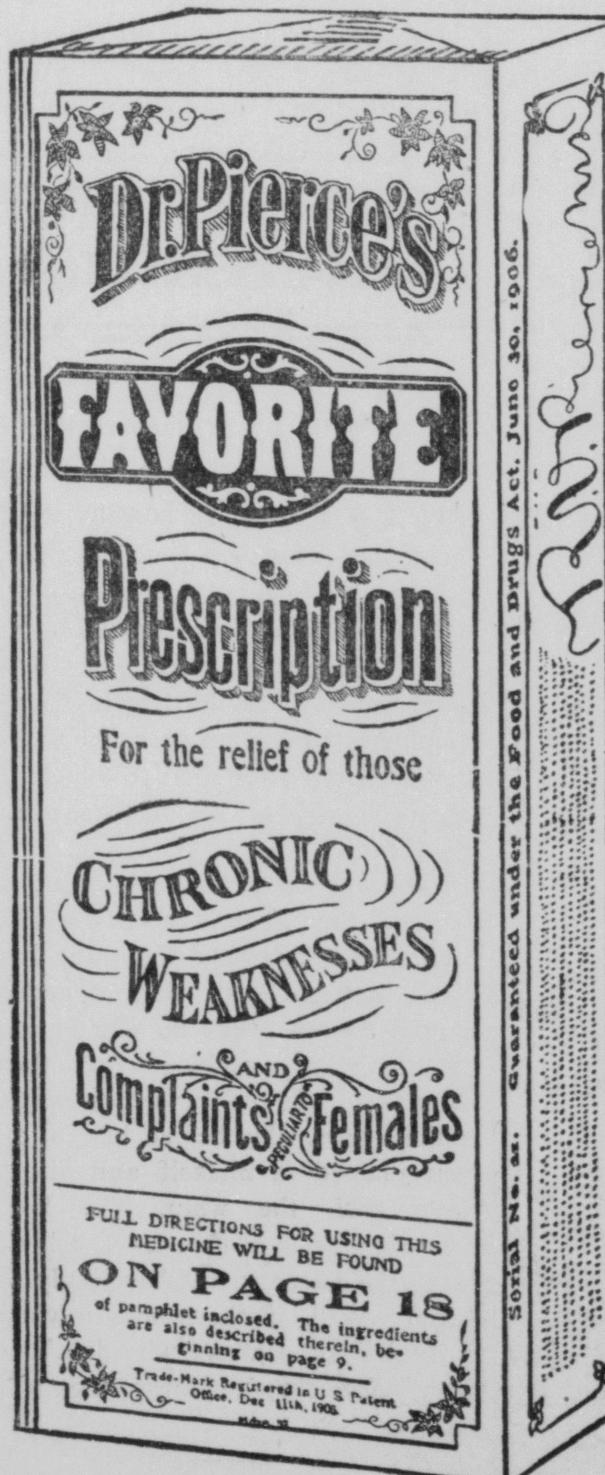

Women use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in preference to all other advocated medicines for it contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs—is not anything like advertised, secret, or patent medicines—does not claim to be able to do impossible things.

THE ONE REMEDY for women devised by a regularly graduated physician of vast experience in woman's ailments, and adapted to her delicate organism.

THE ONE REMEDY good enough that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper.

You can't afford to allow yourself to be over-persuaded into accepting any secret nostrum as a substitute for this honest square-deal non-secret medicine. Don't do it. No honest druggist will attempt to cheat you in this way. He who does should be rebuked and avoided. Doctors prescribe Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for their worst cases because they know what it contains and know its ingredients to be of the very best.

It's well now and then to gently cleanse out bowel germs that breed weakness, cause foul breath, loss of appetite, dizziness and headache. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets keep bowels sweet and clean. Recommended by druggists because of their purity, goodness, and active gentleness.

No more worthy work could be undertaken than the work which is being done by Mrs. T. W. Belker and Mrs. A. L. Stewart. The women are doing much good among the needy classes of the city. And it is not "haphazard charity" which perhaps does as much harm as good. But it is the kind which counts, the kind which leaves the people who are helped permanently better. Much money is wasted on charity because it is not used intelligently, but not so in this case. These women investigate every case, and they give aid in the way it is needed.

They are giving much time to the work for the good they can accomplish. They are looking for no personal glory. Just now they are selling tickets for a charity ball to be given on the night before Thanksgiving. They hope to raise enough funds from this source to do the work they have planned for helping the needy poor during the winter months. Now they are asking that people who can not give their time to the work to help out by buying tickets. And they are not asking anybody for a sacrifice in order to help charity. Instead they are offering value received for the dollar. Those who attended the charity ball last year enjoyed every minute of the time and they are going this year to enjoy it again.

Nothing but the most liberal support of this work can do justice to the women who are working so hard to accomplish some good in the world.

Rubies are most valuable than diamonds, and are practically indestructible except by fire. While a flawless diamond of one karat may be worth roughly about $100, a perfect ruby of the same weight would be worth at least $200. With increase of size the difference becomes much greater. A diamond of ten karats is worth, perhaps, $4000, while a ruby of that weight would be worth any price up to $70,000 which was the value placed on a unique stone exhibited at the Franco-British exposition in London, last year.

Soliloquy

By the Man Behind

Poor man! I felt sorry for him. He had not been in the habit of going to church, but yesterday was such a nice day that he went. And he said he liked the sermon too.

"It did me good and I would have enjoyed the whole service if it hadn't been for one thing," he told me afterward. "There was a woman in front of me, and on that woman was one of the biggest hats I ever saw. I may be a bit peculiar, but I always did like to see the speaker when I was listening to him. That took just half of the enjoyment out of that service for me. Of course I guess you don't go to church to enjoy yourself, but I think they might make it comfortable for you."

I thought about that a good bit after he told me. Now maybe that man won't go back to church any more, for he was not the only one who couldn't see. Of course, I knew it would be considerable trouble for the women to take their hats off, but it don't look exactly right to me for them to leave the big things on. I know they make them take them off in other places, so I can't see why they don't here.

I am sure the minister could make an announcement that would not hurt anybody's feelings. And I also believe he is working under a great handicap if he allows them to leave their hats on. Seems to me something ought to be done for I have seen a lot of disgusted men who have sat through the whole service and looked into the back of some woman's hat. I believe if I was a minister I would try to get the hats off some way. I know one church where the women take their hats off just before the minister begins to preach. That sounds sensible to me and I think the churches in this city ought to start that plan.

There isn't anything so annoying or so painful nor is there anything quite so hard to get rid of as piles. Manzan, the great pile remedy, is the best you can use, for it directly reaches the seat of the trouble and at once relieves and soothes pain. It is applied by means of a tube with nozzle attached. Sold by Lytle's Drug Store.

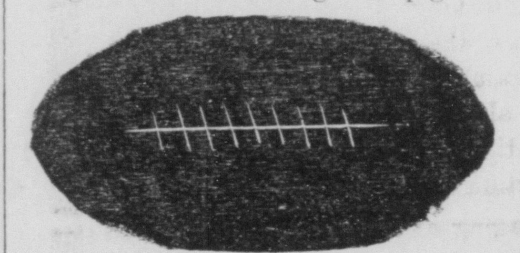

Things Seen By Spud

Saturday was my lucky day. It made me feel like I was a kid again. I came down town after dinner and was standing on the corner of Second and Main streets watching the people passing by.

Well, here came the man with the Fog Horn voice. He was out in the street in front of me and was telling a man about a block up the street how much corn he was shucking every day, and the beauty of it was that the man up the street could hear every word he said.

Then I began to notice kids passing, big and little, and all going the same way. At first I thought there must be a circus in town as that was the way I used to do when I was a kid and there was a show in town. The longer I stayed the more boys passed. I asked some men near me what was going on, but none of them knew. I could have asked one of the boys, but I didn't like to, for when I was a boy it always made me sore to have some guy say, "where you going, bud?" Then here came a bunch of lassies (about sweet sixteen.) I knew then there was something doing for sure. At last I spied a kid about the size of a double bean peanut, who lives in North Main street coming with a bucket. Well, that settled it. I knew if I followed him I could find out what was going on, as I was getting pretty anxious by this time. Right on down the street he went, looking neither to the right nor left, and walking like he was training for a Marathon race. I took right after him so I could find out what was going on. The farther he went the faster he walked. Well, by the time I got to where I saw him turn off I was trotting like a quarter horse of the old class.

Then I found out what was going on. Some boys had been out to some slaughter house and got a pig skin and filled it full of wind and was going to have a football game with some boys from a neighboring town. I looked around for my double-bean peanut and his bucket. Finally I spied him. He was trying to fill one of those quarterback football players with water. The water bucket was his ticket.

Well as I did not care much about seeing them do any tackling stunt (as I used to work with a block and tackle myself) I came back up town. I stopped on the corner by the Grand hotel to watch a couple of dogs that were trying to get in a fight, but a big guy from across the street came out and made them tear out—I guess they called it a draw.

I then looked down First street and behold, I saw what I always wanted when I was a kid—a goat and cart. A couple of kids had a goat hitched to a cart and first one would ride and then the other. Well I knew if I watched them I would see some fun, so I came on down to Perkins street, as they were headed north on Perkins. Well by the time they got to Second street, two more kids joined them. By this time the kids must have smelled that goat, for about every twenty feet a new kid or a dog would join in. The goat was a good natured old fellow. He seemed to enjoy it as much as the kids, and every time a new kid or dog would join in Sir William would stop and look him over and then go ahead. Finally a little black dog thought he would get in line, as his master was there. Right there I thought there was going to be trouble, for old Mr. Goat stopped right quick and jerked his tail a time or two, and looked like he was going to land on that mut. I wouldn't have blamed him much, for there isn't any sense in a dog being as ugly as this one. The last I saw of them as they went over the hill, there were eleven boys, two girls and five dogs in the bunch.

I then came on back down to Second street and there I saw a colored gentleman. He was singing and seemed to be happy. I asked him what he was making so much noise for and he said we had to get used to noise as this world was all noise anyhow, and if we went to the world above we would find noise, and if we went below there would be a well, there would be an awful noise.

I was on my way home and was in front of Havens' Bros. store. A young man stepped up to me and said: "Say, mister, I would like to get some booze." Well, this sort'a knocked me off my feet as I had been taken for lots of things, but never a Blind Tiger before. If I had on a pair of boots he might have taken me for a bootlegger. I told him I didn't have anything on me then. He said anything would do—a quart of apple-jack or peach brandy if nothing else, as he had come over from Greenfield with the football team. He was a real nice young man, too. I asked him who won the game and he said they got beat. If he was strong enough to drink a quart of apple-jack in an hour or two and get away with it, it looks like they ought to have won the football game without any trouble.

Interesting Side of Life

HASTE MAKES WASTE.

It must be a bit embarrassing to get a marriage license especially when you are well known. This young man was very well known and he had an idea that some of his friends would not hesitate to "bawl" him if they saw him coming out of the court house. So he left his buggy standing at the north entrance and he and his bride-to-be went to the clerk's office to answer all the necessary questions.

After the clerk had filled out the license, the about-to-be-wedded couple started toward the outer door. When they got there they looked all around to see that no one in particular was watching for them. Everything was quiet, so they hurried to the buggy. He helped her in, and then jumped in himself and hit the horse with the whip. The horse jumped, slipped in the street, fell and broke the harness. Did anybody see them? Well, if there was anybody in East Second street who didn't see them before they got away, they were asleep.

HOW IT WENT.

The boarder who is an admirer of the Saturday Evening Post, and especially of the dope handed out by Sam Blythe decided to read the "Adventures of a Hypochondriac" to his landlord. Now his landlord is a farm hand. Boarder read the story of the man who thought he would do one thing but was always informed by the "professor" that he would not. When the boarder came to the point where the "hypo" said he guessed he would smoke another cigar but was told by the "professor" to go to bed, the farm hand howled. He laughed and laughed and laughed. And after the boarder had finished the story the farm hand continued to howl.

"Just what strikes you as being so funny?" asked the boarder. "Well I'll tell you. That's the life of the farm hand over and over again. I say I guess I will go to town this afternoon." The boss says 'You will chop wood.' I say I guess I will go huntin.' The boss says 'You will haul wood.' And there you are. I guess I can appreciate that patient's trouble all right.

What Do You Think Of Open Air Schools?

Dr. J. N. Hurty Says Health of Children Would be Much Better

That do you think of school children sitting at desks, studying and reciting lessons, out of doors, in winter? "Cruel, harsh, inhuman," you say. Are you sure? Don't be so fast, says Dr. J. N. Hurty, secretary of the State Board of Health. They have such schools in Germany, in Massachusetts, Rhode Island, New York and other States; and the children, who in the beginning were sick and weak, got strong, healthy, well and happy. It is the fresh cold air and good plain food supplied to the weaklings that makes them well, strong and happy.

The "Outdoor School" at Providence, Rhode Island, is a room, two sides of which have been removed, making a pavilion. There is sunshine and air on all sides. The puny children who have been picked out of schools, arrive at 8:30 a. m. They are immediately taken to a warm well ventilated room, adjoining the pavilion, where they are examined as to their comfort. Their feet must be dry and warm, their hands and faces, necks and ears clean, their clothing dry and warm. A bath is given them if necessary. They usually have had something to eat at their homes, but now a cup of hot soup and bread, or hot cereal with milk and fruit, generally stewed apples or peaches, is given them. After this, the weather being cold, they put on a heavy woolen overcoat reaching to the floor, arctic overshoes, woolen gloves and woolen cap, and out into the outdoor pavilion they go and sit at seats and desks as in the ordinary school room. Now the reciting of lessons and studying begins and the general school routine goes on. Sometimes the canvas curtains at the open sides are lowered all or part of the way to keep out storm or wind, but up they go unless the blustering weather makes it absolutely necessary to keep them down. Sometimes soap-stone foot warmers or hot bricks are used to keep feet warm.

It is simply astonishing what this outdoor school life does for the health, happiness and book progress of children. Puny, catarrhal, consumptive, white lipped, lack-luster eyed children, soon begin to grow rosy, fat and strong. Colds are heard of no more, catarrh improves or gets well, the shine of health and the smile of happiness appears on the once wan sad faces, and they advance more rapidly in their studies.

This is a great lesson in how to get well and keep well. Of all the medicines in this world—cleanliness of body, plain well-cooked food and plenty of fresh air, beat them all. So long as we force children into unventilated bedrooms and into poorly ventilated, stove-warmed, poorly lighted school rooms, just so long sickness among children and the trade in short coffins will be on the boom.

defeated by the Shelbyville Independents Sunday, by a score of 21 to 0. Ed Carter suffered a wrenched hip during the game, but his injury is not serious.

The Shelbyville News says in speaking of the game:

Shelbyville without doubt has this year one of the fastest independent football teams of the State. Rushville came down Sunday, and having defeated Connorsville 24 to 0 last Sunday, expected to give the local team a sound drubbing, but the locals cut something loose that the Rushville lads couldn't stop. The game was called at 3:00 o'clock, during a drizzling rain. Shelbyville kicked off to Rushville. Eddie Carter, a Rushville man, who formerly played baseball with the Shelbyville Grays, returned the ball eight yards. Rushville failed to gain on skin tackle plays, Jim Smith and George Coers stopping the plays. Rushville punted on their third down. Harrison, quarterback for the locals, returned the ball five yards. The Independents then started for the goal, and by a number of end runs, line plungers and forward passes went over for the first touchdown. Bierck kicked an easy goal. Score, Shelbyville 6, Rushville 0. The first touchdown was made in six minutes. Beautiful interferences and fast work soon gave Shelbyville her second touchdown.

The fast work by the Shelbyville back field, composed of Harrison, Taylor, Bierck and Major, was too much for the pride of Rushville, and a third marker was made by Shelbyville just as the time was out for the first half. Bierck kicked goal. Score, Shelbyville 18, Rushville 0.

The second half opened with Rushville kicking to Shelbyville.

After fifteen minutes of play the ball was on Rushville's fifteen-yard line and Shelbyville's third down, with eight yards to gain. Bierck was called back and made a pretty drop kick, the ball sailing directly between the goal posts. Score, Shelbyville 21, Rushville 0. Time was called for the end of the game, the ball being near the Shelbyville goal.

TOTAL ECLIPSE OF MOON TO BE SEEN

Luna Will Play Hide and Seek In Earths Shadow Over an Hour November 27.

WILL BE SEEN IN THIS CITY

A total eclipse of the moon will take place November 27, and unlike that of June 3 will be visible in Rushville. Luna will be totally immersed in the earth's shadow from 2:14 to 8:36 p. m., central time. The shadow of the earth is so much larger than the moon that at totality the rays of the sun bending inward will produce a red halo about the darkened moon.

When the moon is in the center of the shadow it may be completely invisible even through a telescope. As the satellite enters the penumbra or secondary shadow of the earth it will gradually lose its brilliancy, and if still visible after entering the true shadow will be of a deep copper hue.

The moon in its path about the earth moves from west to east and the shadow of the earth from east to west. The first contact will be on the east mb. After playing hide and seek in the earth's shadow for over an hour the moon will emerge from the east side of the shadow and gradually resume her brilliancy.

Peddlers Pester People

Rushville's prosperity is largely responsible for the fact that numerous agents, canvassers, etc., spend a great deal of their time here. A day or two ago canvassers for an out-of-town grocery house made the rounds, picture agents were out today, roasting pan peddlers have paid their respects to housewives, dry goods and notion agents have been out, the hominy man and several others are working on the job.

One picture agent is more tenacious than all the rest. He went to one home and was determined to take an order. The lady informed him in a polite manner that she didn't care to have her sister's picture enlarged, that only made the agent more aggressive. After arguing for half an hour the agent finally took his departure only to bother some one else.

The Palace tonight will show a Vitagraph drama, "The Marble Heart." The management says this is one of the greatest dramas ever put in a picture. The illustrated song will be "When the Little Girl You Think of Thinks of You."

The Vaudet has a good program to offer tonight in the two pictures "The Servants' Good Joke" and "Trained Birds." Both are highly entertaining subjects. A special musical program will be given by Miss Smith Smith on the violin, Chester Worth on the piano and Ralph Harrold on the drums. The illustrated song will be, "Cuse Me Today."

The Star-Grand offers another Biograph subject tonight, entitled "Nursing a Viper." It is a story of the French Revolution. That frightful era in French history, beginning with the outbreak of insurrectionary movements in Paris, July 12, 1789, and the taking of the Bastille July 14, has been the subject of song, story and drama, and it is small wonder that it should prove thrilling material for motion pictures, as this Biograph production will evince. The costuming, staging and locale, together with the acting, is most convincing. This, coupled with a photographic excellence that is superlative, makes it a production of rare value. Earl Robertson will sing "The Moon-Mad Moon."

The Lure of the Mask

HAROLD MAC GRATH

"Die of excitement!" truthfully. "You will live through this event then." With a light, careless laugh La Signorina pressed her way to the table. She lost steadily from the start. She gave no sign, however, that her forces were in full retreat from the enemy. She played on, and the hand which placed the bets was steady. And when the gold was all gone she opened her empty hands expressively and shrugged. She was beaten. Behind the chair of the banker, opposite, stood the Italian. The scowl still marred his forehead. When the woman in the veil spread out her hands he started. There was something familiar in that gesture. And then the woman saw him. For the briefest moment her form stiffened. "Kitty," La Signorina whispered, "let us go out to the atrium. I am tired." They left the hall leisurely and found a vacant settle in the atrium. "How cold your hands are!" exclaimed Kitty. "Kitty, I am a fool, a fool! I have unwittingly put my head in the lion's mouth. If I had not reached this seat in time I should have fallen. I would willingly give all my rings if at this moment I could run across the hall and out into the open." "Merciful heaven! Why, what is the matter? What has happened?" "I cannot explain to you." "Was it some one you saw in there?" "Silence, and sit perfectly still!" A man in evening dress came out into the atrium, lighting a cigarette. At the sight of him both women were startled. "It is Mr. Hillard, Mr. Merrihew's friend!" Kitty would have risen, but the other's strong hand restrained her. "Kitty, remember your promise." "Is he the man?" "No, no! Only I have said that we must not meet him. It might do him incalculable harm. Harm!" La Signorina repeated. "Do you understand?" Hillard blew outward a few pale rings of smoke and circled the atrium with an indolent glance which stopped as it rested upon the two veiled women. A certain curiosity impelled him toward them, and he sank on the settle with perhaps half a dozen spans of the hand between. He observed the women frankly. Not a single whisp of hair escaped the veils, not a line of any feature could be traced, and yet the tint of flesh shone dimly behind the silken bands of crape. He nodded. The veils did not move. "Fortune favors the brave, but rarely the foolish."

There was no response, but the small shoe of the woman nearest began to beat the floor ever so lightly. Hillard was chagrined. Thereupon he bowed and sought another seat. The women hurried to the lobby. He would have given them no further thought had not the Italian with the scar appeared, eyed the retreating figures doubtfully and then started after them. That he did not know them Hillard was reasonably certain. He assumed that the Italian saw a possible flirtation. He rose quickly and followed. The four departed from the casino and crossed toward the Hotel de Paris, the women in the lead. As yet they had not observed that they were being followed. The car stops at this turn. As the women came to a stand one of them saw the approaching men. Instantly she stepped up the street. The other hesitated, then pursued her companion. No longer doubts the Italian Past the park the quartet ran. Then came a stretch of darkness between one electric lamp and another. And then, as if whisked away by magic, the foremost woman disappeared. The other halted, breathless. She started again, but too late. The Italian caught her roughly and quickly tore aside the veil. "Kitty Killigrew!" Hillard cried. He sprang forward and grasped the Italian by the shoulders. The Italian struck out savagely, but Hillard seized his arm. Each man could hear the breathing of the other, quick and deep. "You meddling dog!" gasped Hillard. "Take care lest the dog bite, signor. Release my arm and stand aside!" "Presently. Now, that way is yours," said Hillard, pointing. "Are you certain?" the Italian hissed. "So certain that if you do not obey me I shall call the police." "I should like nothing better," replied the Italian, with a coolness which dumfounded Hillard. "Do you know these ladies?" "Do you?" insolently. "My knowing them does not matter. But it is any gentleman's concern when a man gives pursuit to a lady who does not wish to meet him." "A lady? Grace of Mary, that is droll!" Hillard released the imprisoned arm. There was a patent rillery, a quizzical insolence which convinced Hillard that the Italian had not given chase out of an idle purpose. "We shall meet again," the Italian said softly. "I hope not," replied Hillard frankly. "However, you may find me at the Hotel de Londres."

CHAPTER XIII.
MANY NAPOLEONS.
MERRIHEW sighed with perfect content. The pretty woman sitting opposite smiled at him tenderly, and he smiled back abstractedly, as a man sometimes will when his mind tries to gather in comprehensively a thought and a picture which are totally different. Before him in neat little lustrous stacks stood 7,000 francs in gold, 350 effigies of "Napoleon the Little"—7,000 francs, $1,400, more than half the sum of his letter of credit! He counted off ten coins and placed them on the second dozen. The ball rolled into No. 23. He leaned back again with a second sigh, and the pretty woman smiled a second smile, and the wooden rake pushed the beautiful gold over to him. He was playing a system, one bet in every three turns of the wheel in stakes of $40 and $80. To be sure, he lost now and then, but the next play he doubled and retrieved. Oh, the American Comic Opera company should be well taken care of! Two more bets and then he would pocket his winnings and go. He laid 40 francs on No. 26 and 400 on black, leaned upon his elbows and studied the pretty woman, who smiled. If she spoke English—he scribbled the question on a scrap of paper and pushed it across the table, blushing a little as he did so. She read it, or at least she tried to read it, and shook her head with the air of one deeply puzzled. He sighed again, reflecting that there might have been a pleasant adventure had he only understood French. Twenty-six, black and even! Merrihew slid back his chair and rose. He swept up the gold by the handful and poured it into his pockets, casually and unconcernedly, as if this was an everyday affair and of minor importance. But as a matter of fact his heart was beating fast, and there was a wild desire in his throat to yell with delight. Eighteen hundred dollars, 9,000 francs! A merry music they made in his pockets—jingle, jingle, jingle! And then he saw Hillard coming across the hall. Instantly he forced the joy from his face and eyes and dropped his chin in his collar. He became in that moment the picture of desolation. "Is it all over?" asked Hillard gravely. "All over!" monotonously. "Come over to the cafe, then. I've something important to tell you." "Found them?" with rousing interest. "I shall tell you only when we get out of this place. Come." Hillard put out a friendly hand. "I am sorry, boy. I wanted you to win something. Cheer up! We'll shake the dust of this place in the morning." "Oh, for a vacant lot and a good old whooper-up! Feel!" cried Merrihew, touching his side pockets. "What is it?" asked Hillard. "What is it? It is 450 napoleons!" "What?" sharply, even doubtfully. "That's what! Eighteen hundred dollars! My system will have no funeral tonight." He caught Hillard by the sleeve and fairly ran him over to the cafe. "Nearly two thousand!" murmured Hillard. "Well, of all the luck!" "It does seem too good to be true. I say, what's the matter with your cravat?" Hillard looked down at the fluttering end and reknotted it carelessly. "I saw Kitty tonight," he said. To Merrihew it seemed that all the clatter about him had died away suddenly. He breathed deeply. "Where is she?" "I'll explain what has happened." Merrihew listened eagerly. "And why did you bother about the Italian?" he interrupted. "Why didn't you hold on to Kitty?" "I confess it was stupid of me, but the gentleman with the scar was an unknown quantity. Besides, why should Kitty run away from me of all persons? And why, when I spoke to them in the casino, did they ignore me completely?" "It's your confounded prima donna. She's at the bottom of all this, take To be Continued.

Elwood in a Way to Lose Tin Plate Plant.

THE COMPANY'S ULTIMATUM

In Conference With Mayor, Board of Safety and Prominent Citizens, Manager of Big Plant at Elwood Says if the Effort to Run Open Shop Is Not Given Police Protection He Will Dismantle the Plant and Move the Machinery to Some Eastern City Where the Company Will Be Protected in Its Rights.

Elwood, Ind., Nov. 15.—Thomas O'Brien, district manager of the American Sheet and Tin Plate company, met in conference with the mayor, chief of police, members of the board of public safety and prominent citizens Sunday and presented what the citizens believe to be the company's ultimatum.

Mr. O'Brien said that there are now at work at the plant between 1,200 and 1,400 men and that 500 others are ready to go to work under the open shop plan as soon as they should be guaranteed protection; that the company, while not discriminating against union men, is determined to pursue its open-shop policy and under no circumstances will it run a union plant; and that unless protection is immediately given, doors and windows will be nailed up, the plant dismantled and the machinery moved to some eastern city where the company will be protected in its rights.

Wells County Farmer Received a Threatening Letter.

Bluffton, Ind., Nov. 15.—Finding a letter shoved under his door embodying a demand for $1,000 and threatening death to himself and wife if he failed to deposit the money at a designated spot, or death if they made the letter public, John Caston of Ossian, ten miles north of here, notified Sheriff Lipkey. The latter, with deputies, Caston carrying a lantern, as directed, went to the place and deposited a dummy package. The blackmailers evidently had received warning and the sheriff's officers lay in wait several hours in vain.

SAID THEY WEREN'T GETTING FAIR SHAKE

Imported Laborers At Pittsburg Paid "Negro Scale."

Pittsburg, Nov. 15.—Last night outside the Black Diamond steel works of the Crucible Steel Company of America a bloody battle between colored and white puddlers was fought. Both factions have for some time been employed by the Black Diamond works and trouble came some days since, when the colored men learned that there were two scales of wages paid puddlers, one for negroes, another for the white puddlers, and that the latter had been getting the higher wages. The fight came at the end of a day in which the department of charities of Pittsburg had been importuned but refused to send the colored men back to Tennessee, whence they had been brought some time ago to break a strike then on at the Black Diamond Steel works. After the trouble had been partly settled the colored men, instead of being sent back by the company, were retained and worked at the puddling rolls on another side of the mill from the white men who went back to work. It was found later by the colored men that they were being paid only on a "negro scale" basis for puddling, and trouble began. Appeals have been made for help to get the colored men out of Pittsburg.

HE TOOK OFFENSE

Memphis Negro Wouldn't Stand to Be Preceded by White Men.

Memphis, Tenn., Nov. 15.—Because they boarded a streetcar on one of the downtown streets in front of W. C. Smith, a negro, Ed Cardwell and Ed Koentz, young white men, were shot and instantly killed late Sunday night in an isolated section in the outskirts of the city. According to the conductor of the car, Cardwell and Koentz remained on the back platform while the negro took a seat in the car. Without warning the negro arose, flashed a pistol and began firing. Koentz fell off the car dead at the first shot and Cardwell received two bullets, dying instantly. The negro surrendered an hour later.

JAMAICA PROSTRATE

Recent Unprecedented Storm Laid Waste Island's Plantations.

Kingston, Jamaica, Nov. 15.—(Delayed in Transmission.)—The great storm abated yesterday. Reports of the damage done by the floods and the wind place the loss at about $7,000,000. The banana trade is hard hit, many of the plantations being practically ruined. Internal communication is still badly crippled owing to landslides and the carrying away of bridges. Fully thirty deaths have been reported as resulting from the storm.

Heavy Penalty For Small Theft.

Mobile, Ala., Nov. 15.—Miss Lillie Sutton of Ocean Springs, Miss., sentenced to serve a term of seven years in the Mississippi state prison by Judge Hardy on an indictment for burglary, the theft of a half-pound of butter and five eggs from the residence of Fred Abbey, in custody of the sheriff, left for the penitentiary on the early morning train today. She is the only white woman sent to Rankin farm for some time.

There isn't anything so annoying or so painful nor is there anything quite so hard to get rid of as piles. Manzan, the great pile remedy, is the best you can use, for it directly reaches the seat of the trouble and at once relieves and soothes pain. It is applied by means of a tube with nozzle attached. Sold by Lytle's Drug Store.

What Our Neighbors Are Talking About

EASY TO RAISE MONEY.
(Connersville News.)

J. C. Mount, Arthur Ansted and E. P. Hawkins, who were appointed as a committee by the Commercial club to raise a guarantee fund of $1200 for the May Musical Festival went forth recently and did what they were chosen to do. They went to a hundred of their friends, arm in arm and irresistible, and secured the pledges they desired. The $1200 was secured before nightfall and the report of their work has been made to the Commercial club which is behind the movement.
The guarantee is expected to be

NOTICE

At a recent conference of the Banks of our city and The Peoples Loan and Trust Company, it was decided that regular hours for banking and trust business should be established. It was agreed that the hours should be from eight o'clock a. m. until four p. m., and that this agreement should be in force on and after December 13th, 1909. The business of the Peoples Loan and Trust Company will be governed by this agreement.

nothing more than an assurance of safety for the business end of the Musical Festival as the love of music is so general here that the event is certain to meet with large patronage. Last year the guarantee fund was not touched and if President Johnson's plans are carried through the concert, this year, will be much superior to those of last May, thus inviting larger patronage than before. The present guarantee fund is almost $100 more than the total expense of the last festival and the liberality of the citizens in standing so firmly behind the enterprise demonstrates the wonderful interest manifested in these music feasts. This splendid encouragement will be a stimulus to the committee having the festival in charge. The matter of disposing of the financial problem early also gives plenty of time to arrange the program.
